Racing Warriors, The Veterans of Racing

After spending so many years on the track, horses like Crypto Gulch truly are the veterans of the racing world. Whether they have won a million or only a few thousand dollars during their long careers, they have not only earned their title of “Racing Warrior”, but they have also earned their retirement.

Although crowds no longer gather to see them and their potential for a second career is often limited due to athletic wear and tear, they should not be tossed aside and forgotten. Racing Warriors were accustomed to a daily routine of individualized care and interaction with people while at the track. Their retirement years should be no different and should include more than just a field.

At The Exceller Fund, horses are kept in small numbers to ensure they receive the care they deserve. Nutritional needs go far beyond grass and hay. Hoof care, dental exams and vaccines are all routine, but some horses require specialized care, particularly as they age.

Thank you for helping provide the retirement these deserving RACING WARRIORS have earned!
